IV. SLO Presentation: Mary Pape began by showing two “Honor Rolls”, one showing departments achieving 100% in SLO cycle completion and one showing PLO completion. She thanked the SLO core team for the year’s work and announced that retiring Jim Haynes would be replaced by Veronica Avila. Pape announced that the SLO team had been invited to make a presentation as a model SLO team at an Accrediting Commission for Community and Junior Colleges (ACCJC) regional workshop. She then announced that, although she would not have regular posted SLO hours over the summer, she would be available upon request. The final segments of her report were introducing an activity for all faculty as individuals during the 2014-2015 year (Institutional Learning Outcome assessment) and walking the group through the technique for adding an SLO for a course. During the latter aspect, a plea was made for improvements to the website design to make inadvertent SLO deletion harder.

VI. Student Success and Support Program Follow up: The item was in two very different parts:

The first part consisted of a presentation by Jackie Reza and Neal. They covered a number of aspects of implementation. Among them were revitalized approaches to support for student success, reenvisioned professional development, and enhanced professional development activities. Reza immediately announced the bad news – no additional funding yet. She gave an example of a planned four hour workshop (one of eight anticipated) being on the topic of emotional intelligence in the classroom. Neal and Reza spoke of “taking back” opening day staff development opportunities. Sullivan announced a desire on the part of Health Services to be included in the planning of opening day workshops. Neal and Reza ended by listing planned initiatives for 2014-2015 such as producing a “crosswalk” of the equity and student success reports due Fall 2014, enhanced new faculty orientation, revisiting the meaning of “core” student, student community building throughout quarters, and reinforced Equal Opportunity representative training.

VII. Senate Logo: Cruz distributed a document containing images of the current logo plus two possible replacements plus two previously suggested and rejected. She then asked the Senators to consider the alternatives and be prepared to vote June 16th.

VIII. Spotlight: Child Development: Liu Wei Sun presented. Child Development offers over 35 courses and an Associates Degree for Transfer. The De Anza program is the only community college child development program in California to secure national accreditation (National Association for the Education of Young Children). Given high numbers of Chinese and Spanish speaking children (and parents), the program includes bilingual classes in those languages.
